Ingredients

- ☐ 4 cups apple cider
- ☐ 2 cinnamon sticks
- ☐ 4 whole star anise
- ☐ 6 whole cloves
- ☐ 1 orange, sliced
- ☐ 2 tablespoons maple syrup or honey (optional)
- ☐ Whipped cream for topping (optional)

□ Ground nutmeg for garnish

Instructions

- 1 Start by pouring the apple cider into a medium saucepan over medium heat. Add the cinnamon sticks, star anise, cloves, and orange slices. Heating the cider gently allows the spices to infuse slowly, releasing their flavors without becoming bitter. Avoid boiling, as this can cause the cider to lose its fresh taste and the spices to become overpowering. Let the mixture come to a gentle simmer, stirring occasionally to help blend the flavors evenly. ⌚ 10 minutes
- 2 Once simmering, reduce the heat to low and let it steep for another 5 minutes. If you prefer a sweeter drink, stir in the maple syrup or honey now, allowing it to dissolve fully. This step lets the sweetness balance the spices naturally. Keep the heat low to maintain warmth without boiling. Taste the cider and adjust sweetness or spice intensity if desired. Remove from heat and strain out the spices and orange slices before serving. ⌚ 5 minutes
- 3 Pour the hot cider into mugs and optionally top with whipped cream. Sprinkle a pinch of ground nutmeg over the top for an extra layer of fall flavor. The whipped cream adds a creamy texture that contrasts beautifully with the spiced cider, making each sip indulgent. Serve immediately while warm for the best experience. ⌚ 2 minutes
- 4 For a variation, try adding a splash of bourbon or rum to each mug for an adult-friendly twist. This adds warmth and complexity, perfect for cozy evenings. Be sure to stir gently to combine before sipping. ⌚ 1 minute
- 5 If you want to prepare ahead, keep the spiced cider mixture warm on the lowest heat setting or in a slow cooker on warm. Stir occasionally to prevent any spices from settling or sticking to the bottom. ⌚ As needed
- 6 When serving for a crowd, consider setting up a self-serve station with mugs, cinnamon sticks, whipped cream, and nutmeg so guests can customize their drinks. This adds a fun interactive element and lets everyone enjoy their cider just how they like it. ⌚ Setup time varies
- 7 To enhance the aroma, you can toast the cinnamon sticks lightly in a dry pan before adding them to the cider. This releases essential oils and deepens the spice flavor, making your drink even more fragrant. ⌚ 2-3 minutes
- 8 Avoid adding the spices too early if you plan to keep the cider warm for several hours, as prolonged steeping can cause bitterness. Instead, add fresh spices when reheating or serving to keep the flavor bright. ⌚ As needed

- 9 For a caffeine boost, try substituting half the cider with brewed black tea. This adds tannins and complexity while keeping the cozy fall vibe. Adjust sweetness accordingly as tea can add slight bitterness. ☒ N/A

Chef Tips

☒ Simmer spices gently instead of boiling to avoid bitterness.

Boiling can cause the spices to release tannins and bitter compounds, which overpower the cider's natural sweetness. Gentle simmering extracts the essential oils and flavors slowly, resulting in a smoother, more balanced drink.

☒ Use whole spices rather than ground for clearer flavor and easier removal.

Whole spices infuse flavor gradually and can be strained out easily, preventing gritty texture or over-extraction. Ground spices tend to cloud the drink and can make it bitter if steeped too long.

☒ Toast cinnamon sticks lightly before adding to enhance aroma.

Toasting warms the cinnamon's essential oils, intensifying its fragrance and flavor. This small step can elevate the drink's aroma and depth without adding extra ingredients.

☒ Add sweeteners like maple syrup or honey after simmering to preserve their delicate flavors.

Heating these sweeteners for too long can degrade their nuanced flavors and aromas. Stirring them in at the end keeps their character intact and balances the cider naturally.

☒ Use fresh orange slices for a bright citrus note that balances the spices.

The acidity and freshness of orange slices cut through the rich spices and sweetness, adding complexity and preventing the drink from tasting flat or cloying.

☒ Serve immediately or keep warm on low heat to maintain flavor and temperature.

Keeping the cider warm without boiling preserves the infused flavors and prevents the spices from becoming bitter. It also ensures a comforting serving temperature.

☒ Customize toppings like whipped cream or nutmeg for added texture and flavor contrast.

Toppings introduce creamy or spicy elements that complement the warm cider, making each sip more indulgent and visually appealing.

Storage & Reheating

☒ Refrigerator

Store leftover cider in an airtight container in the refrigerator for up to 3 days. The flavors may intensify but can become slightly muted. Reheat gently before serving.

❄️ Freezer

Freeze the cider in a freezer-safe container for up to 2 months. Thaw overnight in the refrigerator and reheat gently on the stove. Avoid freezing with whipped cream toppings.

☒ Reheating

Reheat cider gently on the stovetop over low heat or in the microwave in short bursts, stirring occasionally to prevent scorching. Add a splash of water or cider if it has thickened.
